The 23-year old TV show “Gilmore Girls” became more popular recently. It recently came out with a continual to the show, this new show is called “Gilmore Girls: A Year Later in the Life”. The original show is about a mother Lorelai Gilmore and her daughter Lorelai Gilmore, known as Rory. Lorelai had Rory at 16, and since then they have had a very close relationship. This relationship is very different from the bond between Lorelai and her parents. She loves them, but gets very annoyed by them. She moved out at a young age and made her own life. Throughout the series, the bond that Lorelai and Rory share is more of a sister relationship rather than a mother-daughter one.

Some other characters in the show are Lane, Rory’s childhood bestfriend, Luke Danes, the owner of the diner that Lorelai and Rory go to at least once a day, later in the series Luke becomes Lorelai’s finance and acts as a father figure of Rory. Speaking of father figure’s Rory’s birth father, Chris, has never really been present in either of their lives. Throughout the show Lorelai and Chris get back together, but it never works. Going with the lovers theme, Rory has had many love interests, Dean, Jess, Tristan, and Logan. Dean started this chain off as her first boyfriend, as they were dating, Tristan, tried his best to win over Rory. Rory had met Dean at her old highschool, but then she moved to a private school called Chilton, this is where she met Tristan. Tristan never got Rory and eventually he moved to military school. Jess is Luke’s nephew and he moved in with Luke, Jess saw Rory and he knew that’s what he wanted. She was still with Dean during this period, and she eventually fell for Jess. When Rory went to Yale, she met Logan. They worked on the Yale daily news together and they both fell for each other. To pay for Chilton and Yale, Lorelai gains contact with her parents again to ask them to pay for Rory’s school. There is still much more to find out from the show and the viewers are in for a treat. This show serves as a “comfort show” for many people, and might be top ten for any type of day.

Although this show is very old and you would assume for it to be outdated, “Gilmore Girls” still takes over streaming platforms. This show is the perfect comedy-drama with witty comments made throughout each episode. Through breakups, hookups, and the typical every day drama, this show relates to the lives of many teenagers now.

This series first came out on October 5, 2000. It aired from 2000-2006 on The WB, there were originally 6 seasons. The final season (season 7) aired on The CW.

This show is very popular and is worth the watch, so go grab your favorite snacks and enjoy.
