

Painting Your Pallete with Chocolate

Hand-painted Chooclates Looks and Taste Delightful

By: Estella Schnetzler

This past Feburary a sweet spot opened up in downtown Powell. LOHcally Artisan Chocolates secured a spot at 77 W Olentangy St Powell, OH. I drove by this store and it immediately caught my attention. I decided to check it out. After taking a quick run through downtown I decided to satisfy my sweet tooth with a trip to this new shop. I walked in and was greeted by one of the very kind workers. She explained so much about the shop. The history and the inspiration behind each of the unique flavors for the truffles. The artisan chocolate truffles are hand-painted with all-natural colored cocoa butter. There were rows of different beautifly crafted truffles. Every flavor seemed delicious. It was hard to choose a few.

I walked to sit down and was pleased with the relaxing ambiance and the amount of seating. There were couches, tables and high top tables to sit at and enjoy your delicious purchase. The decor was immaculate and had a modern boho feel to it. I was so excited to dig in.

I started off with a seasoanal truffle flavor, Chai Spice. The Chai Spice truffle is a white chocolate shell filled with cardamom and cinnamon chai ganache. It tasted as delicious as it sounded. It had the perfect amount of Chai. This truffle satisfied my taste buds and I was ready to try the next flavor I had purchased. This next truffle was better than a Reece Penut Butter Cup. The Milk Creamy Penut Butter truffle was a perfect mix of sweetness. With its milk chocolate shell and peanut butter buttercream, it melted in my mouth and left me speechless. It truly may have been one of the best chocolates I have ever tasted. Although these two truffles filled me up, I was determined to try the last truffle I purchased. The Chocolate Covered Strawberry truffle. I must say, I most definitely saved the best for last. This milk chocolate shell filled with their homemade milk chocolate strawberry ganache was a true work of art. It tasted just like a chocolate covered strawberry. The perfect amount of tartness and sweetness was ever so present in this truffle. I felt refreshed after this truffle. It was light and airy and satisfied all my cravings.

This experiance was one I will surely be making again.

This is a three pack of the chocolates I purchased.

This was the case of chocolates at the front of the shop. As you can tell, they have a huge variety.

The packaging is perfect for any event. A birthday, mothers day etc.

Next time you are in downtown Powell make sure to check out LOHcally Artisan Chocolates. You will not regret your experiance. Their handcrafted truffles, made with only the finest ingredients will leave you day dreaming about them until your next time at this incredible shop.
