

NYC is the Best City in the U.S.

Written, designed, and photos by: Laykan Pierce

Have you ever wondered what the best city in the U.S. is? Well I'm here to tell you it's NYC. There are many reasons why NYC is the best city. For one, there's always something to do. The city never sleeps and there's always something new to discover. Plus, the food is amazing. You can find any type of cuisine you're craving, from pizza to sushi to Ethiopian food. And the people are so diverse and interesting. There are so many different cultures and backgrounds represented in the city. Finally, the architecture is breathtaking. From the Empire State Building to the Brooklyn Bridge, there are so many iconic structures that make the city unique.

First, the diversity is amazing. There is a reason they call it the melting pot city. I believe it's really important for people to experience somewhere where everyone is different. Growing up in a town where predominantly everyone is similar when it comes to race, religiously, and economically so it was a huge shock when I was in NYC. It was also refreshing to see so many different people with various backgrounds just living their life the way they want it. According to SimpleToRemember.com, New York City is home to the largest Jewish Community outside Israel.

Second, the food is like no other. New York is like traveling to different parts of the world because of the variety of food that is available. All you pizza lovers would be in Heaven if you ever go. I would have pizza everyday because on every corner, there was a pizza shop. There's also always something new which is perfect because you'll never get bored of eating. The food can be pretty pricey but you're getting good quality food that will fill you up for all the walking you have to do. Because NYC is so diverse there are so many different types of food to try.

Lastly, the architecture is absolutely breathtaking. I personally love looking at architecture, so I really enjoyed that. From small pink brick buildings to the empire state building, everyone is unique in their own way. Just walking around the city looking up at these world famous buildings is crazy.

For example seeing one of the World Trade Centers buildings was amazing because of the crazy things it has witnessed. When you look at the building just think about how many different families that have lived in it. There's always history behind each building too. According to ibigroup.com, from 1818-1850, a variation of Neoclassicism, Greek Revival, ruled American architecture and became the first truly national style in the U.S. The style's strong ties to classic tradition and democracy resonated with New Yorkers, contributing to its wild popularity across the country.

NYC is an amazing city with so much to offer. From the food, to the culture, to the people, there's no shortage of things to see and do. With its iconic landmarks, bustling streets, and diverse communities, NYC truly is the city that never sleeps. So if you're looking for an adventure, come check out the Big Apple and see for yourself what makes it the best city in the U.S.

My favorite building in Chelsea NYC.

Pizza from Chelsea Market in Chelsea NYC.

My favorite photo of the World Trade Center building.